OLAY FACIAL CLEANSERS

Glamming it up isn't the only fun part. These cleansers are good, clean and fun. They go deep down to the pore for skin that's naturally beautiful. Even without makeup. Well, maybe just a little.

MARY KAY

PROMOTION

FALL INTO YOUR BEAUTY WITH THE perfectpout

Pucker up! All glam girls need a statement-making smooch. Are you all the rage for reds and berries, or playful with pinks and neutrals? Whatever your signature shade, Mary Kay® will help you fall into your beauty with a variety of kissable options this season.

BERRY-LICIOUS & BOLD

Reds and berries make a killer comeback this season—whether matte or satin finish! Fit for a princess, try Liquid Lip Color in Royal Plum for the perfect amount of go get 'em glam! If you're looking to be bold and bring out your inner bombshell, Creme Lipstick in Red is the way to go. Mary Kay's luscious lip colors will have you ready for a haute holiday in no time.

SUBTLE & SOFT

Seeking something softer? Mary Kay's subdued pink and neutral tones are playfully perfect for day yet subtly sexy for night. If you're craving super-shine, Nourishine™ Lip Gloss in Cream & Sugar will be your new best friend. For effortless chic, try Tinted Lip Balm in Blush—not only is the shade super-soft, but the formula protects and moisturizes, leaving your lips super-soft, too!

Got down these lip tips from Mary Kay Independent Beauty Consultants in your style notebook~

- 1 Your lips should complement your eyes. If you're berry-licious & bold, eye makeup should remain neutral; but if you're playing up the eyes, a subtle & soft pink or neutral gloss will do the trick!
- 2 Apply Mary Kay® Lip Primer to lips before lip color for longer-lasting coverage.
- 3 Lip pencils help define your lips and allow you to achieve any desired shape (Try one of Mary Kay®'s Lip Liner shades).

Hi!

Around the office, we call this our "Body Issue"—it's packed with tons of fashion advice to make your body look awesome (no working out!). It's hard enough finding your own personal sense of style—but figuring out how to make those clothes work for your shape is a whole different kind of challenge! It's one that I have failed on so many occasions! I've been 5'10" since high school, and even though I love being tall, it took me a long time to learn how to dress for my body. I tried oversize boxy jackets thinking they would keep me from looking lanky. (I just looked like a beanpole in a too-big blazer!) I was told I could pull off cropped tops. (Turns out, I can't—I just look like shoulders attached to crazy-long legs!) And every time someone tells me that a maxi was made for me, I cringe—on my frame, all you see is a lot of dress! I finally learned that for me, dresses need to show a little leg, and jackets and tops are best when they hit midhip. I promise that every bit of "tall" advice in these pages is personally vetted by me. And I'm not the only one who puts their real-life experience into getting our style advice just right: At 5'3", our fashion director, Gina, is a classic petite. She never wears shoes with an ankle strap or boots that hit midcalf because they make her look shorter—and she always belts her dresses high on her waist to lengthen her leg line. Our senior market editor, Marissa, is always looking out for girls with curvy hips: She says A-line skirts are her best friend because they nip in the waist and float over her thighs. All the advice in the mag is tried and tested—trust me, the Seventeen team has suffered through years of bad outfits so you don't have to! :-)

E-mail me your favorite style trick at ann@seventeen.com and I'll put the best ones in my blog this month!

the naked truth!

We surveyed readers and got their deepest body confessions. Here's the amazing stuff we learned!

Heather Morris

54%
of readers
LOVE THEIR CHEST

Heather is proud of her chest, too—she got implants a few years ago, but realized she was happier au natural! So she had them removed.

“Implants were something I thought I wanted when I was younger, and now I don't. My chest was always sore, and I didn't like always being in pain—so they had to go!”

—Heather Morris

46%
of readers

STRUGGLE WITH THEIR BODY IMAGE

Demi has been totally candid and brave about her body image issues.

“The reason I became so outspoken is because when I grew up, I was dealing with the pressure to be thin. Very skinny girls were on the cover of every magazine and that's what I had to idolize. I don't want that for young girls to idolize.”

—Demi Lovato

SELENA GOMEZ

Selena has a healthy body—and a healthy body image to match!

“There's a point in everybody's life when they look in the mirror and see what could be better. But one of my best friends told me to get up every morning and say, 'I am beautiful.' Every single morning. God made you who you are. So embrace it.”

CUSTOMIZE IT FOR YOUR FACE SHAPE!

OVAL

If your face is longer than it is wide, add a little roundness to your cheeks by applying blush in an exaggerated upside-down C shape.

SQUARE

Girls with a strong jaw can soften those angles with a hit of blush right on the apples—the spots that pop when you smile—and a subtle swipe along your jawline and temple.

ROUND

Elongate a full face with a horizontal swipe of blush along your cheeks. Start below your pupils and drag it in a soft curve, stopping just before your hairline.

SMOLDERING eyes!

Outline your lids in sexy metallics, and no one will be able to look away!

- ① Frame your eyes! Glide a soft, creamy pencil as closely (and carefully!) along your inner rims as possible.
- ② Create contours! Sweep a light shade from lashlines to browbones. Then blend a darker shade in the crease of your lid and around the outer edge of your eye.
- ③ Get ultra-flirty lashes! Apply two coats on top and bottom so your lashes look super-lush against the deep shadows.

CUSTOMIZE IT FOR YOUR EYE SHAPE!

CLOSE-SET Create more distance between your eyes by keeping dark colors on the outer half, and adding lighter colors to the inner corners. (Dark colors all over make eyes look even closer together!)

FAR-SET Bring eyes that are farther apart closer by applying dark colors on the inside of your eyes! Apply it right in the center of your creases, and top with a lighter shade just on the inner corners to brighten you up.

DOWNTURNED Eyes that slope downward at the outer corners can get a lift by blending a dark shadow on the outside corner up toward your brow. Fill in the rest of your lid with a lighter shade to make them pop!

THE on-the-go Girls

Catch them if you can! Meet these 3 super-busy girls who are constantly on the move.

Fall is officially in full swing, and so are the On-the-Go Girls! A fitness expert, Seventeen Style Pro and real-girl athlete will be revealing their active agendas and sharing their secrets to remaining unstoppable in upcoming months.

pump up your pony!

Before you reach for that rubber band in despair, check out these cute looks—the pony possibilities are endless. BY MOLLY RITTERBECK

Mon.

POLISHED HIGH PONY

how-to: Slip into the week with a fun waterfall pony! Fasten hair on top of your crown. Take a small section from the tail and wrap it around the base to conceal your elastic. Run a flat-iron over the ponytail twice, then smooth on an anti-frizz serum for a super-sleek style.

SPORTY BRAID

how-to: Look cute on or off the field with a braided pony! Add a body-boosting cream to damp hair before drying to thicken your strands. Then braid your pony to the ends, and fasten with a clear elastic.

Fri.

SOFT SWIRLS

how-to: These windswept curls will make Friday night extra flirty! Apply mousse to damp hair and let dry. Enhance curls with a curling wand (the conelike shape gives the most natural results!), and then pull hair over to one side into a low, loose pony. Let a few pieces fall free for a playful touch.

brighten up!

No more pasty winter skin! Glow on and look radiant with these tricks. BY meredith gray

17 FYI

Your skin takes a beating in the winter—heavier makeup, changing temperatures, and dirt and oil buildup all dry out your skin, causing it to lose its glowiness.

Avoid irritation.

Swap out your medicated cleanser (which can be too rough for dry winter skin) and pick a soothing formula with soy. It's an amazing skin multitasker that improves texture, evens out blotchiness, and lightens dark spots!

try: Aveeno Positively Radiant Brightening Cleanser, $7, drugstores

Exfoliate two times a week.

A gentle scrub buffs away the dead cells that make skin look drab. (Just steer clear of ones with seeds or shells, which can scrape delicate skin.) This one contains lemon extract, a known brightness booster.

try: Clean & Clear Morning Burst Skin Brightening Scrub, $6, drugstores

Glow where you want to.

A tinted moisturizer combined with a luminizer will draw light to your skin, giving you a sunlit brightness—even indoors! The bonus is that this one has SPF, too, to keep your skin protected.

try: Urban Decay Urban Defense Tinted Moisturizer SPF 20, $30, Sephora stores

A SPECIAL GUIDE FOR GIRLS WITH RELAXED, COARSE, OR NATURAL HAIR!

4 secrets to crazy-healthy hair!

When you love your hair, it loves you back—by being shiny, silky, and totally manageable. BY MOLLY RITTERBECK

1. start with your scalp!

For truly amazing hair, you need to get to the root of your issues! Here's how.

DELETE DANDRUFF

It's true: Natural shedding on your scalp can clog pores and stunt new growth! Keep flakes in check by using a dandruff-fighting shampoo with zinc.

try: Garnier Fructis Anti-Dandruff Shampoo Clean & Fresh, $5, drugstores

GET RID OF GREASE

Too much oil can oversaturate your roots, which makes your hair limp. Soak it up in between washings (and strengthen your hair, too!) with a protein-infused dry shampoo.

try: Keratin Complex Lock Laundry Strengthening Dry Shampoo, $25, keratincomplex.com

STOP HAIR FROM THINNING

Harsh straighteners and stylers can cause some of your strands to fall out. An intense amino acid treatment stimulates the scalp to help promote new growth.

try: Redken Intra Force Micro Boost Treatment, $45, redken.com for salons

2. resculpt your curls!

Major damage bends your curls out of shape! Put the kick back in your kinks.

● avoid heat Ultra-hot flat-irons fry your hair, breaking up the bonds of your curls. A weekly deep conditioner will nurse them back to good health!

● style right Define your curls with a light spray gel, then twist small sections around your finger and scrunch up to coax them into a bouncy pattern.

TOUCH-UP RELAXER

Adding chemicals on top of chemicals can make your hair break off! Relax only your new growth, not all the way to the ends.

try: Ultra Sheen Ultra Care New Growth No-Lye Conditioning Relaxer System, $6, Walgreens stores

CONDITIONER & CAP

Go deep with your treatment! Apply a deep-conditioning treatment and cover your hair with a plastic cap while showering. The steam helps get the moisturizing ingredients into the hair shaft.

try: SoftSheen-Carson Dark and Lovely Healthy-Gloss 5 Moisture Hair Crème, $6, Sally Beauty Supply stores

GENIUS FLAT-IRON

Don't let your hair feel the burn! This flat-iron has two silicone strips along its plates, which help minimize direct contact with high temps.

try: Kiss Silicone Protection Flat Iron, $50, Walmart stores

17 TIP:

Don't braid too tight! Pulling your cornrows and braids too hard will damage your follicle and could cause hair loss. Make sure braids are comfortable, not painful, and always treat roots with a leave-in conditioner.

4. try these easy (& gentle!) styles

Spare your hair from drawn-out torture with these time-saving looks!

ZENDAYA

swept-up swirls Twist your natural curls into a loose bun, letting a few pieces hang out. Top it off with a cute headband!

KAT GRAHAM

Step this leg out on a diagonal!

A Start with feet apart and arms overhead.

B Step out on a diagonal with your circle your arms and torso, keep strong and abs tight. (Think: "S")

THE PENDULUM

Tightens abs, back, and lower bod!

Squat low, swinging arms down...

... and back up to start on other side!

A Stand, feet wide and toes slightly turned out. Twist right at waist, with elbows out and fists at chest.

B Squat, swinging arms in a half circle in front of you like a pendulum.

C Continue this motion as you come up from your squat to return to start on the other side. Repeat in the opposite direction.

TH

Bend your knees and shake your booty!

A Stand, feet together and fists at chest with elbows out.

B Step out with left foot and bend knees, then shake your booty.

Blast some music in your room and do Candice Accola's hip-hop workout four times a week. The high-energy cardio and hard-core toning will make you look and feel amazing.

WHIRLY BIRD

Tones abs and whittles waist!

Your body is rotating to the right.

Finish here, and then reverse!

...left foot as you bring your arms up and swirl!")

C-E Repeat this three more times to rotate right, then reverse it, stepping backward four times in the opposite direction back to start. Repeat with right leg.

THE LAWN MOWER

Shapes legs and butt!

To turn knee in: Lift heel and pivot on the ball of your foot!

A Begin in a squat with heels about three feet apart, toes slightly turned out, and knees over toes. Put both arms straight out in front of you with fists level.

B Bring right fist to right hip while turning right knee in; return to start. Repeat on left side.

THE SHAKE AND SLIDE

Strengthens legs and entire core!

Shake your booty again!

Now return to start...

...and slide your right leg to meet it!

...then step with your left foot...

Return to start, then step with right foot to repeat to the other side.

D Step together to return to start, facing the front.

E Now step left with left foot as you push arms down.

F Slide right foot and pull arms up to return to start, then repeat slide to the right.

eat right on thanksgiving!

You won't need to unbutton your pants after Turkey Day din if you pick the less greasy, sugary, or super-heavy stuff.

SKIP IT:

candied sweet potatoes

PICK IT:

mashed potatoes with gravy

Sweet potatoes are loaded with vitamins but are usually prepared with tons of sugar and heaps of butter. Take a small scoop of mashed potatoes instead, especially if they're made with skim milk (not cream) and just a touch of butter.

To avoid overdoing it on the gravy, don't pour it on—drizzle it. (Two spoonfuls is just enough!)

SKIP IT:

turkey drumstick with skin

PICK IT:

white meat turkey

Protein on your plate is key—it satisfies you and kills the urge to overeat. If you choose white meat over dark, you'll cut out almost as much fat as you'd find in your dessert. (Really!)

portion tip:
A healthy-size serving of turkey is about the size of a deck of cards.

Homemade cranberry sauce is better than the canned kind, which can be loaded with sugar!

SKIP IT:

pecan pie

PICK IT:

pumpkin pie

The gooey, syrupy pecans are pretty heavy after a full meal, but pumpkin filling is lighter, with about half the calories. (Bonus: You score some immune-boosting vitamin A!)

SKIP IT:

green bean casserole

PICK IT:

sautéed string beans

Want to know a secret? Casserole is often code for hidden fats, like heavy creams and butter. So when it comes to veggies, remember this: the simpler, the better!

SKIP IT:

biscuit with butter

PICK IT:

stuffing

Too many starchy carbs can cause major bloat. So make stuffing with whole wheat bread instead, and ask Mom to cook it outside the turkey—it won't soak up all the grease!

CONFIDENCE

CONFIDENTIAL

Insider tips on feeling great, inside and out.

Secret Deodorant gives girls confidence—with deodorants to fight odor and the Mean Stinks program, which fights stinky behavior like bullying and girl-on-girl meanness. Body Peace Council member Katherine Schwarzenegger is here to share her secrets on how to get the ultimate confidence boost.

Being nice feels great, and being mean just plain stinks! Check out my fave ways to make other people smile and start loving your inner and outer beauty:

- 1 Give your friends compliments every day. Building people up not only makes them feel good, it gives you a great feeling on the inside too.
- 2 See the beauty in your friends' flaws. Bringing your friends down only leaves you with a bad feeling inside.
- 3 If you see a woman who looks fabulous, tell her! That small act will uplift her for the rest of the day. It will make you feel really good too.
- 4 Remember that mean girls are just insecure. They'd rather point a finger at someone else before someone points a finger at them.
- 5 Learn to validate your own self-esteem and not look to others to accomplish this. If you feel happy and beautiful, people will see you that way. I promise!

THE seventeen Body Peace AWARDS!

Four years ago, we launched our body love mission. Now it's time to celebrate a world of progress!

THE BEST CELEB BODY PEACE BREAKTHROUGH

Jennifer Lawrence is tired of Hollywood's hunger games—and not afraid to say it!

“I’m miserable when I’m dieting. I’m sick of all these actresses looking like birds. I’d rather look a little chubby on camera and look like a person in real life.”

—JENNIFER LAWRENCE

DEMI LOVATO ♥s
KIM KARDASHIAN

“Kim sends a great message to girls—that you don’t need to be a size 00 to be beautiful and feel confident! She embraces her body’s true shape.”

SELENA GOMEZ ♥s
LEIGHTON MEESTER

“Leighton told me, ‘When you don’t wear makeup all the time, you don’t need it to feel good.’ So true.”

AMBER RILEY ♥s
QUEEN LATIFAH

“She’s such a confident person, and she never let being a full-figured woman decide what roles she took.”

“MY BODY PEACE PROPS GO TO...”

MUSIC TREND OF THE YEAR:

CONFIDENCE!

Crushes, heartbreak, and partying are so 2010. In '11, everyone's fave female pop stars were singing major love-yourself anthems!

"Essentially all I need is to be everything but me
Colored contacts
Liposuction
And some implants.
Somehow that don't make much sense
I must be out of my head
If I think that I am
governed by material things.
So I decided that I'm the definition of fly."

—ELLE'S "SO FLY"

NEW BODY PEACE PANEL MEMBER!

After being diagnosed with scoliosis,
Shailene Woodley
signed the Body Peace treaty with a friend a few years ago. Now she wants you to own what makes you different!

“Scoliosis has taught me to listen to my body and be grateful for what it is and what it can do—and not get caught up on what it isn't and what it can't do.”

—SHAILENE WOODLEY

SPECIAL GUY AWARD!

THANKS, DRAKE, FOR APPRECIATING
NATURAL BEAUTY:

"Sweatpants,
hair tied,
chillin' with no make-up on That's when you're the prettiest. . ."

—DRAKE, "BEST I EVER HAD"

Shailene and the other new Body Peace Panel members will be contributing to the magazine throughout the year!

NEW BODY PEACE
PANEL MEMBER!

World champ surfer Carissa Moore, who practically lives in a bathing suit, has learned to make peace by thanking her bod.

“I still struggle. I’ll look in the mirror and wish my legs were thinner and more defined. But then I think about how they help me ride a wave, and I feel strong.”

—CARISSA MOORE

REAL-LIFE BODY PEACE HEROES

These kick-butt girls took action!

THE BFFS HELPING OTHER GIRLS HEAL

Kristina Saffran, 19, and Liana Rosenman, 20, met in rehab for anorexia five years ago. Now through Project HEAL, they give scholarships (five so far!) to girls who can’t afford eating disorder treatment. “We never thought full recovery was possible,” says Kristina. “We’re here to show other girls that it is.”

THE FASHION INDUSTRY CRUSADER

Model Katie Halchishick, 26, couldn’t get jobs at her natural, healthy weight because she wasn’t sample-size or plus-size, so she started her own agency to include the sizes in between. Now her models (who get booked by Target and Forever 21) go around speaking to girls about body image—making them awesome role models, too!

TV SHOWS OF THE YEAR!

Being super-entertaining and sneaking in a message? That’s major.

AWKWARD. Even though Jenna has a dorky rep at school, the show proves she has real guts and body peace. (No, Mom, actually I don’t need breast implants!) The lesson: Confidence is about what you think—and no one else!

THE VOICE

This reality series has made a statement by literally turning its back on looks and image to reward true talent.

LILY ELISE
ON THE VOICE

GLEE Remember the “Born This Way” episode? Seeing the club air its “flaws” made it okay to admit and accept your insecurities, and that’s what Glee does best. It reminds us that no one fits into some unreachable ideal—so why even try?

NEW BODY PEACE
PANEL MEMBER!

Jordin Sparks watched her body transform this year when she lost 30 pounds—and fought hard to keep her head in the right place as it happened.

“This year I committed to being healthier. When I lost weight, I couldn’t get anyone to pay attention to my music—all they wanted to talk about was my body! I had to step back and remind myself, and everyone else, Hey, I’m still the same person.”

love life

FALL in love!

The weather is getting crisp and cool, but your back-to-school flirtationship is really heating up! Now is the time to take it to the next level. BY elisa benson boost your bond!

Every lasting relationship needs to pass a few tests. Here are the markers that take you from flirty to forever.

ASK CRAZY Qs!

Solid couples know each other better than anyone, but not necessarily through super-deep, forced convos. Ask zany questions like, "Whose life would you steal?" or play games of text Truth or Dare. You'll start to uncover each other's hopes and dreams—in a fun way.

CELEBRATE!

In-love couples don't just support each other in a passive "good luck" way—they're truly psyched to live in each other's big moments. So when he scores a big goal or gets into his dream school, be the first to head up the after-party. He'll know you're on his side.

TEAM UP!

Taking on a joint project gives you that amazing "Yay, we did it!" feeling—which is a completely different rush from a regular date night. Try painting your bedroom, volunteering, or making dinner for friends—anything where you're working together.

THE TRUE LOVE QUIZ!

The more boxes you check, the closer you are to real-life love!

- ☐ You've had a blowout fight. Figuring out how to work through a major argument and be okay on the other side is the first sign that your love is strong.
- ☐ You feel comfortable. Makeup-free, period-crampy, stinky-sweaty, who cares? You know he sees who you are inside.
- ☐ You drive each other nuts sometimes. The butterflies have faded and you're seeing the real him—flaws and all. Your bond is stronger because it's real.
- ☐ You've discussed sex. It's no big deal to talk about your boundaries because your connection is beyond just the physical.
- ☐ You really listen. Even when you don't agree with him, you appreciate that he's opened you up to a new perspective—and vice versa.
- ☐ You go after your dreams. Real love makes you stronger in every way. You approach everything—sports, college, internships—with new confidence because you know he has your back. Every time.

"why i fell for her"

Steal these tricks to make your guy go gaga for you!

HER PASSION!

“I love how driven my girlfriend is about ballet, from the way she cares for her ballet shoes to her careful warm-up routine. That kind of focus and dedication is the same stuff that makes her an awesome girlfriend.”

—MATTHEW, 21, LOS ANGELES, CA

HER DEVOTION!

“My girlfriend makes a point to come to all my track meets and brings cute handmade posters. I feel good knowing that even when I don't have the best race, she's still my biggest fan.”

—ERVING, 17, EASTPOINTE, MI

HER THOUGHTFULNESS!

“One Saturday morning, my girlfriend showed up at my house to surprise me with banana-chocolate chip pancakes! The fact that she would plan something special for no reason made me feel special, too.”

—CALEB, 20, HOUSTON, TX

CELEB CONFESSION!

"Becoming infatuated with someone, that's not really love. Love is a pretty special thing—it feels a lot better than just being obsessed."

—LIAM HEMSWORTH

AWW!

“Sometimes I panic. Will it be awkward when we see each other at school? Could this be a start of a relationship? So many questions run through my brain that it can be hard to enjoy the moment.”

-REHAN, 17

“I think a lot about tongue. I've had girls shove their entire tongues in my mouth and it's gross, so I'm careful not to do that to anyone else!”

-BOBBY, 17

“I immediately start thinking about how I can get to the next step—making out is nice, but I want more. I spend most of my brain power thinking of clever lines that will help me get to home base.”

-WILLIAM, 19

“Every time I kiss someone new, I think, Wow, I can't believe this is happening. I feel lucky and surprised.”

-ANTON, 18

“With a girl I really like, I'm totally concerned about making things fun for her. I wonder, Am I doing this right? Is she enjoying it? What can I do to spice things up?”

-NICK, 18

“The number one thing I'm thinking about is my breath—like, Wait, what did I have for dinner again? I've learned to keep mints on me so I don't feel paranoid!”

-JIN, 19

“In the middle of a hookup, I secretly rate how hot the girl is, so I can decide whether it's worth bragging about to my friends in the morning.”

SNEAKY WAYS TO

turn him down (the nice way!)

Don't drag things out with a dud just because you're too sweet to end it! Try one of these exit strategies. BY elisa benson a boring guy at a party:

Keep your eyes moving around the room while he's talking to you—it's a clear signal that you're not invested, but you can play it off like you're looking for a "friend." After a minute, pretend to see her and excuse yourself to say hi.

a dude you've dated once or twice:

Take things back to the friend zone. For example, if he asks you to dinner, say it would be fun to get a group together. He'll realize you're not into one-on-one time, but in a way that allows him to play it off like he didn't want things to be serious, either.

an ongoing fling:

Make it feel mutual: "I know we both wanted this to work, but I can tell that neither of us is feeling it anymore." Acting like he had a say in the split (even if he didn't!) gives him a chance to save face in an otherwise sucky situation.

WAY HARSH! This dude is still feeling burned by a brutal rejection.

"I started talking to this girl who was jogging in the park. I asked for her number and she gave me the first six digits, then paused, so I began typing them in my phone. When I looked up, she was sprinting away!"

do guys think you're desperate?

You think he needs a little encouragement, but he might think your moves are overkill! BY elisa benson

START HERE:
Check the statements that sound the most like you.

- ☐ You immediately friend guys you meet on Facebook and check for signs that you might be a good match.
- ☐ You don't have a certain type. You like to keep an open mind and talk to everybody.
- ☐ If you heard a rumor that a guy liked you, you'd just brush it off. It's probably not true!
- ☐ When you click with someone, you can't help imagining you two as a couple.
- ☐ For you, approaching guys first is no big deal—you're pretty much able to talk to anyone.
- ☐ Generally speaking, the guy should always make the first move—he has to text first, ask you to hang out first, initiate the kiss, etc.

(MOSTLY GREEN)

You keep it chill

You definitely play cool around guys—but sometimes you're so cool that you seem disinterested. If you're worried about being too obvious, remember some of the best flirting moves are super-subtle (like flashing a bright smile). Just a little effort has a major impact!

(MOSTLY ORANGE)

You're a super-flirt

You see love as a numbers game—the more guys you talk to, the more likely it is that one will work out. But no guy wants to feel like he's one of a million. Focus on making deep connections with guys, not just racking them up. It ultimately gets you closer to love.

(MOSTLY RED)

You come on too strong

The minute you see potential with a guy, you work hard to ensure it will last. But guys aren't always so future-oriented, and acting couple-y can be too much too soon. Remember, when your status with a guy is still casual, you should act that way too.

kiss-off

Zoë, Sophia, Ada, Casey, and Annie (from left) spoke out against sexism.

“we fought our smut list!”

Nothing hurts more than being called a slut—except when everyone laughs about it! But Sophia, 17, and her friends refused to be degraded. AS TOLD TO rachel bertsche

A huge, crazy-loud group of guys—mostly giant, burly football players and their friends—had gathered in the cafeteria, laughing, fist-bumping, and high-fiving as they surrounded a guy named Jarrett. Ugh. Jarrett was known for writing disgusting lists that ranked girls in our grade based on how “hot” they were. This obnoxious crowd could only mean one thing—Jarrett had written another one.

I'd been on his eighth and ninth grade lists, where he talked about my “porn star looks,” and “angry eyebrows.” It made me so uncomfortable. I remember thinking, Holy crap! This is what guys think about me?!? This time around, even though I knew that whatever he wrote about me probably wasn't going to be nice, I was still sickly curious to find out what the list said.

Within minutes, copies of the list were scattered all over the cafeteria. My friend snatched one up, shouting, “Sophia, you're number one!” It was so much worse than I'd thought! He ranked us all by number based on our face, breasts, legs, and butt, and wrote horrible comments about our races and religions, talked about girls giving oral sex, called some alcoholics, and even noted girls who had gained weight.

THE FALLOUT

Kids devoured the list all day. Guys would say to me, “What's up, Number One?” On the outside, I tried to shrug it off. I didn't want to give those guys the satisfaction of seeing me upset. But on the inside, I was angry. Girls on the list were crying because they felt violated. (My friend Carly, whom Jarrett had made fun of for being adopted, even punched him!) It made me so mad to see the mayhem he was causing. Many of the girls who weren't on the list were upset because they thought they weren't hot enough to get noticed—twisted! But in reality, the list made most of us feel like total crap. Getting the top ranking wasn't a prize for me. It was like eavesdropping on guys' locker room conversations—so gross! Jarrett was judging me on my body—he talked about my “ass and rack”—and so were all of the people who read the list. Of course I like to look good, but looks aren't everything. I'm also a varsity soccer player, a great singer, and a good friend. Why couldn't he notice that?

“He ranked us based on our face, breasts, legs, and butt!”

And the gossip got worse before it got better. The same day he handed out the list, Jarrett posted it on Facebook. It got taken down quickly, but not before a men's humor site reposted the entire thing, so he was getting more attention than ever.

A TIME FOR BONDING

A week after Jarrett released the list, one of the girls, Haley, invited all 50 of us on the list and our parents to meet at her house. The goal was to make ourselves feel better about the situation and to talk about what we could do at school so this never happened again.

We started off by joking that if we had created a list of hot guys, Jarrett wouldn't have even made it! But then we began to talk about how the list made us feel about ourselves. A lot of girls started breaking down because Jarrett had called out the things they were most insecure about. But there was so much support in the room! Annie, Ada, and Casey made witty comments to lighten the mood. Zoë would chime in, reminding us that we were gorgeous inside and out, no matter what Jarrett said. The group ended up being a great way for us to bond, and some of us hadn't even been friends beforehand. We started a Facebook group called “Unlisted,” so we could continue talking online, and we came up with some great ideas to fight back!

FIGHTING BACK

A few weeks later, we all got our principal to expand sexual harassment training in class and require that all students participate, and administrators had T-shirts made that say “RESPECT” on the front and have a Martin Luther King Jr. quote on the back: “In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies, but the silence of our friends.” Our mission is to remind students that you have to stand up for what's right, instead of laughing at something you know is wrong. One day, more than 800 kids and staff members who owned a shirt decided to wear it on the same day. Even some of the guys who had supported Jarrett earlier wore the shirts! It was so cool.

As for Jarrett, he transferred schools. He left before the school could punish him, but he was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct for creating and distributing the list. I'm still pissed at him, but I'm actually happy about what happened because people rallied around my friends and me, and we proved that we are more than just “asses and racks.” We have personalities and brains, too—and when pushed, we can change minds, and even change lives. 17 get killer confidence!

by Kelly Clarkson

You've always loved Kelly's empowering music—now steal her tips on how to get even Stronger.

“To be truly confident is to know that you're comfortable with you.”

Kelly's new album, Stronger, is out on October 24!

Aw! Kelly as a high school junior.

When I was 17, my dream was to get out of Burleson, Texas. I wanted to see the world.

The person I look up to the most is any person who isn't defined by what others think.

When I finally got a record deal, I quit my three jobs and bought a house!

Before hitting it big, Kelly was a Red Bull promo girl, a waitress, and a telemarketer!

My #1 confidence trick is reminding myself that God made only one of me, and no one can disregard how special that makes each of us. I am unique. I am beautiful. I am loved. What more could I want?

I feel my best when I'm wearing dresses, because they're just more comfortable.

What always cheers me up: watching classic old movies and listening to my vinyl collection.

The Goonies is one of Kelly's all-time favorite flicks.

When I'm intimidated, I talk even more than my normal amount (which is a lot!).

Never, ever, ever read anything about yourself online (good or bad).

My mantra is: “Be yourself, and rock what you got!”

So
naughty.

Heather Morris is so not what you'd expect. It's easy to assume she's a dippy blonde like her character, Brittany S. Pierce, on Glee—and in some ways she is. “I like to say things that are just so random,” she says. “And I love to make people laugh. But I’m not naive.” Turns out, the “random girl” routine is actually part of her act—she just likes to keep people on their toes. “When I’m in public, I want to be doing everything opposite from what everybody else does,” she says.

But the real Heather would surprise most people. For starters, she’s incredibly driven. She started taking dance lessons when she was only 18 months old and was entering dance competitions by the time she was 4. “I just kept wanting to work harder at it,” she says. “It was my art.” And she’s seriously smart. In high school, the Scottsdale, Arizona, native had a 4.0 average. “I was a really good student,” she admits. “I liked math and science.” (These days, her fellow Glee castmates like to tease her because she always has her nose in a book.) She is also fiercely loyal. The 24-year-old has been dating her former high school schoolmate and boyfriend, Taylor Hubbell, for four years—and has zero interest in dating up the Hollywood ladder.

But a lot of these amazing qualities came from one of the saddest moments in her life—the death of her father when she was only 14. “It hit me so fast,” she says of that traumatic moment. But it also gave her a clear goal: to follow her dreams. So at 19, she picked up and moved to Los Angeles to become a professional dancer. For the first year, she went to endless auditions and made ends meet by working as a greeter at Abercrombie & Fitch. But lightning struck within a year when she tried out for a spot as a backup dancer on Beyoncé’s world tour. “I wasn’t nervous; I was just excited,” she says—and that fearlessness helped her get the gig on the spot. Two years later, when the producers of Glee needed someone to teach the cast the choreography to “Single Ladies,” Heather was called in. Her goofy sense of humor and uncensored nature instantly charmed them, and they gave her the chance to read for a guest role, which quickly became a permanent spot. Now she gets to do the two things she loves most—deliver the show’s funniest lines and dance circles around everyone else. “My dad would be so happy for me,” she says. With each passing episode, Heather’s role gets bigger and more complex—her nonjudgmental portrayal of a girl who’s in love with both a guy and her closest girl friend is particularly groundbreaking. Sure, we’re into Rachel Berry’s desperate shenanigans or Quinn Fabray’s twisted bid to stay popular at all costs, but Heather is the one stealing all the attention—both on-screen and off!

ON HEATHER: Jacket, Diesel; bralette and Spandex, VPL; shorts, Ella Moss; earrings, CC Skye; sneakers, Jeremy Scott x Adidas Originals.

17: How did losing your father at such a young age affect you?

Heather Morris: It made me grow up in a different way. My mom and I are really close because of it, so I’m glad I have a good relationship with her, but I definitely went through a lot of phases. At times, I didn’t care at all and I went to school in my pajamas and I cried. But then I cut it out and I focused on my dancing. I was in dance class all the time.

17: We get a lot of letters from readers about grief. How did you deal with yours?

HM: It’s definitely a process, because it still goes on. I think about my dad more than I ever have—but in a good way, because I feel like I’m hanging out with him all the time. I always kind of pretend he’s here.

17: Did you ever have moments where you felt like giving up on your dreams?

HM: I went to college because I thought it would make my dad proud, but I just went for a year—I realized I was going to miss out on trying to do what I wanted to do.

17: Do you think you'll ever go back to school?

HM: Before I'm 30, I want to go back to college.

17: You got your first big break working for Beyoncé. What did you learn from her?

HM: Beyoncé was just always full-out. She's like a beast. So you learn that no matter how you feel, just do it. Just like Nike: "Just Do It."

17: Your role on Glee is your first acting job, right? Who helped you out on your first day?

HM: Naya [Rivera, who plays Santana] and I did a scene together. It was my first acting scene, and we just started talking. She and I immediately became friends.

17: And now your character is having a relationship with Naya's character. Is it weird kissing a good friend?

HM: It was weird. I mean, we were both giggling. I could not imagine doing this with any of my close friends now. If we played Spin the Bottle one night, I would never. It'd be so weird. I couldn't.

17: Have you ever kissed a girl in your real life?

HM: Yeah. Mostly for guys' attention when I was in high school. One time I did it when I was curious with a friend, but she wasn't my best friend.

17: What would be your advice to a reader who is questioning her sexuality?

HM: Everybody's process is different. When I was younger, you're like, I love my friends. Girls are so fun to hang out with. I don't like boys. Maybe I'm gay! Maybe it's just by process of elimination, who you enjoy to hang out with. I don't really have advice because each person is different.

17: Did you get a lot of attention from guys when you were in high school?

HM: I was so outgoing and annoying. I'm sure guys were like, She's so ridiculous. I just wanted to hang out with my friends and laugh. All my friends are goofballs. I just want to have a good time.

17: Did you ever ask a guy out?

HM: I asked one boy out when I was 16—I was a sophomore and he was a freshman, and he was so cute.

His name was Chad. [Editor's note: It's Chad Duell, who was on Wizards of Waverly Place.] He lived next door to one of my best friends. And I was just like, "Chad come out on a date with me! Please!" I'd go over to his house and knock on the door and get him to come out.

17: Bold! What's your best flirting move now?

HM: Dance really well—dance to impress yourself, not for anybody else. If you're having fun and you're happy, you're unconsciously flirting with people who are watching you because they're like, "Wow, she is sexy."

17: What if you're not a good dancer?

HM: Be smart! [Laughs.] But if you're a very bad dancer, just have fun with your friends. I think when you intentionally try to flirt, you're not doing a good job. It won't feel real.

17: You've been with your boyfriend, Taylor, for a long time. What do you love most about him?

HM: He likes me a lot. He's hot. And he's cool. I like how I make him feel and act, and the same goes for me. I like that he likes the feeling he has when he's around me. And I knew I didn't want to date anybody else. I just want to be with him.

17: What does he love about you?

HM: He loves that I make him laugh. But I know I can't take it too far. Like the other day, I was having this conversation with my friend about farts, and I realized guys probably wouldn't think that's sexy. There's a limit.

17: Smart! What's the best advice you ever got?

HM: When I was growing up, my mom was always like, "Whatever you do, make sure you're happy doing it. And if you're not happy, then stop." That's a good thing. She let me do what I needed to do.

17: Have you learned anything from your character, Brittany?

HM: She teaches me to be myself, and go for it. More and more. I do what I want to do.

17: That seems to be working out!

HM: Yeah. I love being myself.

BIG IDEAS

These teeny tips can make a massive difference.

SCARLET LIPS

Keep that red lipstick in place! Apply it with a lip brush—you'll get total control (how much color and exactly where it goes).

try: Revlon Colorburst Lipstick in Coral, $9, drugstores

Use a foundation brush dipped in base to draw around the edges of your lips—it will keep them nice and sharp!

try: Revlon Foundation Brush, $10, drugstores

Solid dark eyes can look muddy, but Gucci says that multiple shades add contrast and dimension! Start with a base coat of an opaque royal blue all over lids. Then add a lighter shade on the inner corners and browbones, and a sheer iridescent indigo to the center.

try: (from top) Dolce&Gabbana Smooth Eye Color Duo in Sky, $29, saks.com; Revlon Diamond Lust Eyeshadow in Neptune Star, $5, drugstores.

3 DEEP EYES & LIPS

17 FYI

Gucci created this color as part of her new Expressionist by Gucci Westman for Revlon Collection! Check out all the pretty colors at drugstores nationwide.

Sweep your dark shadow on top lids, but don't go above crease. Then balance the depth of the shadow by applying a loose sparkly highlighter on top.

try: Jouer Powder Eyeshadow in Bordeaux, $20, jouercosmetics.com; Too Faced Glamour Dust in Glampire, $17, toofaced.com

The prettiest lips reflect light so your whole face glows! Paint on a deep stain, and then swipe on one coat of a similarly colored gloss over your lipstick.

try: Revlon Limited Edition Lipgloss Palette in Bordeaux in the Snow, $7, drugstores

CONTOURED FACE

Bring your favorite features to the forefront! Sweep a matte bronzer one shade darker than your skin tone below your cheekbones, at your temples, and along the sides of the nose. (It will bring out your bone structure). Then apply liquid highlighter down the bridge of your nose, along cheekbones, in your tear ducts, and on Cupid's bow to cast an overall glow.

THE MUSHBALL

At 5:30 A.M. on her 16th birthday, Allison was still asleep when her boyfriend, Dakota, showed up to surprise her—holding a plate of heart-shaped waffles and a small pink notebook. On the first page, he wrote that he'd loved her from the moment he saw her at church camp—and tripped because he was so distracted by her! Then he told Allison that he hoped they could trade messages in the notebook every week, and that this would be their way of setting their love in stone. "Allison loves to write," says Dakota. "I wanted to share something that she likes to do. It's helped me express myself in a different way."

Dakota and Allison's openness has also helped them through rough patches, too. "A few weeks ago, we had this stupid fight at a party," says Allison. "On the way home, we talked about it, and soon we were both crying—in a good way. We knew we could be totally honest with each other."

"Great communication goes both ways," says Dakota. "You can be honest, but the other person has to really listen. I know I can tell Allison anything and she won't judge me—even when I do something I'm not proud of, like blowing a test. She's helped me let my guard down—and that's what made us grow so close."

is the mushball your perfect match?

- ✓ You've been hurt before and have a hard time trusting guys, so you need a sensitive type who'll be extra-careful with your heart.
- ✓ You regularly write in a diary or blog (you've got to get it all out!) and need a partner who's in touch with his emotions, too.
- ✓ You love flowers, candlelit dinners, the works! Romantic gestures are a sign of love—you'd never go for a guy who's too cool for that.

THE JOKESTER

Karen was parked on the couch for the second day in a row—marathoning Degrassi and feeling miserable from getting her wisdom teeth pulled—when the doorbell rang. Her boyfriend, Thomas, stood there, basically bursting out of a child-size knight's costume. "I am your knight in shining armor and you are my princess!" he exclaimed, holding three mismatched bouquets of flowers and Chinese takeout. Karen immediately burst out laughing. "I used to be a tough cookie to crack—kind of shy and serious," Karen admits. "But Thomas's crazy humor cuts right through that."

The couple was set up for a Halloween dance at Thomas's school two years ago—and spent an hour in the parking lot afterward, waiting for Karen's dad to pick her up. "We just talked," says Thomas. "Everyone else had left early to party, but Karen said straight up, 'I don't drink.' She doesn't care what anyone else thinks is cool—she is totally her own person. From the first moment I met her, that was so interesting to me."

"I thought that dance would be an awkward blind date," says Karen. "But it turned into something amazing. I'd been in other relationships that didn't work, because I never felt comfortable. If you find yourself being fake, pretending to laugh at things he says—that's a bad sign. With Thomas, the laughter is always real."

is the jokester your perfect match?

- ✓ You're a little wacky. You have a hidden silly side, but only the people who make you feel truly comfortable can draw it out of you.
- ✓ Confidence is a major turn-on for you. You're drawn to guys who like to be the center of attention. The excitement rubs off!
- ✓ You love little surprises. You're not into over-the-top romance or big showy displays of affection; you think love is in the details.

THE ROCK

One hot, humid day last summer, Kate was at the pool with friends when her mom called with tearful news: “Your dad has cancer,” she said. “I was so scared,” said Kate. “I had no idea what to do. Out of instinct, I called my boyfriend, Jorge, and just broke down. He said, ‘This is the toughest thing in the world not to have control over—but I’ll be there for you every step of the way.’”

As Kate’s parents got caught up with hospital visits and talk of the thyroid cancer, Jorge was the one person in the world who was there just for Kate. He went with her to visit her dad in the hospital, cracked her up when she didn’t feel like talking about it, and, after her father’s throat surgery, showed up with ice cream. “I didn’t always know what I was supposed to do,” says Jorge. “I just knew I had to do whatever I could to make Kate feel better.” Eventually, Kate’s dad made a full recovery. “Our relationship was tested,” says Kate. “But we came out closer than ever.”

Since Jorge and Kate first started chatting in their school gym two years ago, it’s always been super-important to have each other’s backs. “When we can tell the other person is having a bad day, we leave a note in their car,” says Kate. “And Jorge has this secret hand signal when we’re together: Two squeezes mean, ‘I love you.’ It’s his way of reminding me that he’s right there beside me if I’m ever starting to freak out about something!”

“I do anything I can to support Kate because she supports me too,” says Jorge. “No one in my family ever talked to me about college, but Kate took me to look at schools, fill out my applications, and register for classes. She is always there for me, helping me get through it all. The least I can do is return the favor.”

BAD BF ALERT!

Not every dude is award-winning material. The Best BFs tell you how to spot the losers.

● He doesn’t apologize.

“One guy I know left his girlfriend out of the loop when he was making plans for the weekend, and she got upset. Instead of admitting that it was wrong, he just pretended like he’d never seen her text asking to hang out. A real man never has too much pride to say that he’s sorry.” -DAKOTA

● He won’t commit.

“When I was on the football team, guys would talk about seeing three girls at one time. They got away with it because they’d tell girls they didn’t want to be official. That’s what guys say when they want a ‘get out of jail free’ card for cheating.” -JORGE

● He wants an instant hookup.

“All my guy friends have told me they want to be in relationships, but they also go to parties and have random hookups. That’s why if you meet someone you like, you shouldn’t hook up with him right away. That tells him that you’re looking for something more serious than one night of fun.” -THOMAS

THE LOST GIRLS

More than half a million people were reported missing in America last year—nearly half of them were girls just like you. BY CLAUDINE KO

Any of the girls on the opposite page could be your best friend. Think about it: She's the first person you text when you need someone to talk to and the only person you trust to keep all of your secrets. But what if one day, you came to class and nobody knew where she was? Or you sent a text, and she didn't respond—ever again?

It may seem like the kind of thing that would never happen to you, but last year, the FBI received 565,692 missing persons reports for people under the age of 21—though experts say the real number of missing teenagers, which includes cases that haven't been reported to the police, could be more than a million. Many of the reports are for teens who ran away because they lived in an abusive home, and 99 percent of the time, the teen is found within the first six months. But a tiny portion of unsolved cases end up a lot scarier—not just for the missing girl, but for her family and friends as well. They are the brutal kidnapping stories you hear about on crime dramas and the nightly news, and in those cases, it's likely she's been murdered.

The truth is, the longer a girl is gone, the less likely it is that she will come home. But there is always a glimmer of hope. Elizabeth Smart was kidnapped and found after nine months, and Jaycee Dugard returned home after 18 years of captivity, and so maybe there's a chance for those who are still missing. Their stories can help you understand how to protect yourself—and your friends. That way, you'll never have to go through the pain of loss and not knowing, which these girls' best friends experience every day.

ABDUCTED!

HOLLY BOBO, 21

Missing since April 13, 2011, from Darden, TN

Holly and her BFF, Brittany, 20, were inseparable. After high school graduation, they both took college nursing classes, studied together, and went to church together, where Holly sang solos in the choir. For fun, they drove around in Brittany's Mustang and made videos of themselves rocking out to Miley Cyrus songs.

On a chilly morning last spring, Brittany didn't have time to send Holly her usual 6 A.M. "What are you wearing today?" text because she was cramming for an exam they had that morning. But when she arrived in class at 8 A.M., Holly wasn't there. "I knew something was wrong," says Brittany. "Holly's always 10 minutes early." Brittany was convinced that Holly had been in an accident and cried throughout the test. Her instinct was right—Holly was in danger. When the test was over, the teacher announced that an AMBER alert had been issued for Holly and the rest of class was canceled.

WHEN HE SAW BLOOD ON THE GROUND, HE CALLED 911.

Brittany sped to Holly's house on autopilot, blindly following the route she'd driven so many times before. When she got there, there were helicopters above and police officers everywhere. "It was just completely unreal. I felt sick to my stomach," says Brittany.

Holly's brother, Clint, says he woke up at 7:45 that morning to Holly's dog barking outside. He watched through the window as Holly walked into the woods with a man in a hunting jacket who he had assumed was her boyfriend, Drew—until he got a call from his mom, who said a neighbor had heard screaming near the house. When Clint told her that Holly was with Drew, his mom said that it couldn't have been Drew—Drew was hunting across town! That's when Clint ran outside to investigate. When he spotted blood on the ground, he called 911.

Now six months later, there are still no answers and no more clues about why Holly was targeted or who the man was. Brittany lives in fear every day. "I see the world differently," she says. "I pay attention everywhere I go. I used to trust people. I'd leave doors unlocked. Now I lock everything behind me." Holly's loved ones say they aren't giving up until she's home. "We need to keep her story out there, so people don't forget," says Brittany.

FOUL PLAY!

KENIA MONGE, 19

Went missing on April 1, 2011, from Denver, CO

"I always wanted to be like Kenia. She was really good at school and was the president of clubs. And she still partied and did normal teenage-girl things," says Kim, 16, of her sister, Kenia, whom she admired for her girly sense of style. "She'd hate it when I wore sweats. She'd be like, 'Kimberly, get dressed.'"

One warm spring day, Kenia's boyfriend called Kim, worried, asking her if she knew where Kenia was. Kim checked Facebook and saw photos of Kenia and her friends at a club the night before. "She drank, but she was always careful," says Kim. Kim then called Kenia's friends, who said she'd disappeared from the club, leaving her purse and phone on the table. "She never goes anywhere by herself," says Kim. "She'd never leave her phone. She couldn't shower without her phone."

"SHE'D NEVER LEAVE HER PHONE."

After her friend brought Kenia's things to her family, they saw a text from a stranger that said, "This is Travis, the guy who gave you a ride last night, white creepy van :) did you get home okay?" Kenia's dad called Travis, who said he'd offered her a ride home after he saw her acting disoriented on the street. On the way, he said, she asked to stop at a gas station and then randomly took off with another guy. That didn't seem right to her family, so they called the police.

Shortly after, news reports said that Travis was caught on camera wheeling a large duct-taped cooler to the back door of the bakery he worked at, and then shutting off the security cameras while wearing elbow-length latex gloves. Then a witness said he saw a white van and someone burning something in a barrel behind the bakery. In July, Travis was charged with attempted murder, arson, and sexual assault of another woman. It was all too suspicious for Kenia's family, who pushed the police to investigate as they waited patiently for any news about Kenia. "No news is good news," says Kim. "At least there's hope."

UPDATE: Unfortunately, Kim's hopes have been crushed. Just as this story was going to press, Travis led police to Kenia's body buried near a highway. "I really thought they were going to find her alive. When I heard, I fell to the floor, screaming and kicking. I'm missing a part of me," says Kim. "But in a way, I'm relieved to know the truth."

WATCH YOUR BACK
There's no need to be paranoid if you take a few precautions.

✓ USE THE BUDDY SYSTEM. Never go out alone and look out for friends by vowing that you'll always go home together.

✓ DEVELOP A SECRET SAFETY WORD. If a guy is creeping you out, use a word like banana to signal to a friend that you need help.

✓ ARM YOURSELF. Carrying mace or pepper spray while walking alone can save you, but so can a brush, keys, pen, or cell phone, held in your fist and aimed at the attacker's eyes.

RUNAWAY!

IASIA SWEETING, 18

Missing since April 12, 2010, from Avondale Estates, GA

There was nothing Iasia loved more than writing poetry, drawing, and painting. But all that changed in the fall of her junior year when Iasia, then 16, met a 17-year-old guy named Khanowk on the way to school. "She had a rocky home life, so for her to meet a guy, it was everything she ever wanted," says her best friend Natalie, now 19. Khanowk offered to help Iasia with chemistry, even though she had a 3.5 GPA. "She would rave about how smart he was and began seeing him as much as possible," says Natalie.

One night, Iasia didn't come home until midnight and her mother was so upset, she says she "gave her a whupping" and told her she wasn't allowed to stay out late again. So Iasia began skipping school to hang out with Khanowk and would ask Natalie to lie for her. At first, Natalie was okay with it.

"She was my best friend. Of course I would cover for her!" she says. But when Iasia began to pull away from their friendship, Natalie knew something was very wrong.

"Her whole world became consumed by him and she no longer confided in me," says Natalie. "I was worried about her, so I stopped lying for her." Iasia accused Natalie of not wanting her to be happy and screamed that she no longer wanted to be best friends. Natalie felt the Iasia she knew would never turn her back on their friendship. Soon after, Iasia's mother called Natalie to tell her she'd run away. Iasia disabled her Facebook wall to prevent anyone from posting on it, but still, Natalie wrote to her almost every day, hoping that she might respond.

"I was so depressed," says Natalie. "I'm really scared for her. I don't know anything about this guy or what kind of person he is, and I worry that they're living on the streets together."

Finally, last October, Iasia contacted Natalie, and said they'd see each other again in March, on Iasia's birthday. But she never showed up. "I still pray for her all the time," says Natalie. "I pray that she's happy and not getting caught up in anything that will destroy her. But I have no way of knowing if that's true."

If you or someone you know is planning to run away, call the free 24/7 National Runaway Switchboard at 800-RUNAWAY.

BFFs forever
Lauren (left) and Becca were so close, they felt like sisters.

"my best friend disappeared without a trace!"

Lauren Spierer and I have been best friends since seventh grade. When she decided to go to Indiana University and I chose the University of Wisconsin, we made a pact to video chat every day. We'd gossip about everything, and I'd try on outfits and she'd tell me what looked good. Despite the distance, she was always there for me.

Last January, I surprise-visited her for her birthday. She was so excited, she jumped into my arms and knocked over my suitcases! I had no idea that it would be the last time I'd see her.

I spoke to Lauren on the phone two days before she disappeared. She was saying how she couldn't wait for summer, when we could hang out at my family's pool. Then on June 3, her boyfriend, Jesse, left me a voicemail. He didn't usually call me, so I was worried. When I called him back, he told me Lauren was missing! I didn't believe him—it felt too scary to be true, but as hours and then days passed, it finally sunk in. I was devastated, but clung to the hope that she'd turn up.

Five days later, I flew out to Indiana with my parents. Several of us searched with a retired police officer, wanting to be the ones to find her. I'd see potential evidence everywhere, like a hair tie, and I'd report it just in case. I stayed in Indiana for four days, not wanting to leave.

To this day, I still have no idea what happened to Lauren. Every time I pass our favorite pizza shop or nail salon, I tear up, wondering where she is.

There's a lot of misinformation out there, which is why her family, friends, and I run the "Official Lauren Spierer Updates From Her Family" Facebook page—to have one channel of information that isn't gossip, just facts. As her best friend, it's the least I can do. I won't stop until I know the truth.

—Becca, 19, Edgemont, NY, as told to Caitlin Keating

DAVID'S BRIDAL

TRAUMARAMA!

Everyone has had humiliating moments.

gettin' down

"I was at a club showing off my best moves while people circled around me—but the floor was slippery, and I fell flat on my face! I got up as if nothing had happened, but a few minutes later, I face-planted again. I was so embarrassed and didn't want to fall a third time, so I didn't get up right away. When my friends yelled for someone to get help, I snapped back to reality and literally crawled off the dance floor—getting stains on my new pants, too!"

false alarm

"I came home late one night after play rehearsal and couldn't find my house keys. My parents were out and not answering their phones, and my neighbors, who had a spare key, weren't home either. I poked above their front door looking for it, but I must have set off the silent alarm because the police arrived, lights flashing. I stood there, humiliated, trying to convince them I wasn't some 17-year-old criminal mastermind until some other neighbors stepped in to vouch for me!"

"When I was just learning how to ski, I wasn't really in control of myself yet—especially when it came to stopping! I was speeding down the hill and I crashed head-on into a woman. She freaked out, but at least she broke my fall!"

—BRIDGET MENDLER,
GOOD LUCK CHARLIE

the ex factor

"I was at a party and saw my ex across the room. I was so nervous that I started babbling about it to a girl sitting next to me on the couch. All of a sudden, he came over and kissed her on the lips! Then she turned to me and introduced him as her boyfriend. I was paralyzed with shock. We stared at each other until I got the feeling back in my legs and ran out of the party without looking back!"

one nutty night

"My crush and I were on our first date at an ice cream parlor. I quickly finished my small scoop, so he offered me some of his giant turtle sundae. I didn't realize it had nuts in it—and I'm totally allergic to them! My face and tongue swelled up and I had to be rushed to the hospital. Worst. Date. Ever!"

NOVEMBER HOROSCOPES

by sally brompton

scorpio

Oct 23–Nov 21

Even though you love your BFF, you've been driving each other nuts lately. But around the 13th, you'll find out that people have been saying nasty stuff about her and jump to her defense without thinking twice. After that, you'll both remember how lucky you are to be besties and renew your bond.

aquarius

Jan 20–Feb 18

You and an adorable guy from class have been chatting online, and his cute IMs always make you smile! Why is it that you two never seem to hang out face-to-face? On the 3rd, the stars will be perfectly aligned for a real-live date—though you may have to do the asking. He'll say yes!

taurus

Apr 20–May 20

In late November, it will seem like your BF has gone MIA. When you're with him, he'll be lost in his thoughts; when you're apart, his cell won't get reception. Grrrr! Blame Mercury: On the 24th, it will go retrograde, messing with all kinds of communication. Things will return to normal, so hang on.

leo

July 23–Aug 22

The guy you've been hanging out with lately is very sweet, and you keep hoping to feel that special spark between you. For both your sakes, it may be time to just let him go, Leo. On the 15th, you'll meet someone you really click with. You'll want to be available when it happens, right?

sagittarius

Nov 22–Dec 21

You were psyched to reconnect with all your friends in September, but the new school year already feels like the same old, same old. On the 25th, the solar eclipse will nudge you to introduce yourself to new people. By the end of the month, the fun (and hot parties) will really start!

pisces

Feb 19–Mar 20

As a sensitive Pisces girl, you instantly pick up on everyone's feelings, which can be a blessing and a curse. When two of your friends have a huge fight on the 5th, you'll feel torn. Luckily you'll tap into your amazing peacemaking skills to help them work things out. Crisis averted!

gemini

May 21–Jun 20

Gems always have a packed schedule, but last month was ridic! As you rushed from event to event, everyone wound up feeling shortchanged, including you. On the 2nd, Mercury will help you set some priorities; you won't see as many friends, but you'll actually have a lot more fun!

virgo

Aug 23–Sep 22

Your girls FB as much as anyone else, but they're starting to worry about how much time you spend online. Plus, they miss hanging out with you! All this month, they'll devote themselves to getting you offline and outdoors. You may complain, but secretly you'll love all the attention!

capricorn

Dec 22–Jan 19

With all your midterm projects and after-school activities, you've been mega-busy. You're a pro at juggling all this stuff, but by the 10th, you'll feel worn out and just plain blah. That's the full moon urging you to recharge, Cap. You'll feel like your old self in no time if you take a little breather.

aries

Mar 21–Apr 19

You've been so broke recently, and staying in is getting old. Thankfully the sun will land in your money area until the 22nd, bringing spending cash with it! That outfit at the mall you've been obsessed with? You'll finally be able to snag it—and just in time for a hot night out with your girls!

cancer

Jun 21–Jul 22

You've been looking for a new workout or sport to try, and thanks to the sun, you'll find one that's perfect for you. The prob? Near the 22nd, you'll be so driven to improve your performance, you could end up pushing yourself way too hard. If you don't watch it, Cancer, you'll get hurt!

libra

Sep 23–Oct 22

You have B-day gift cards burning a hole in your pocket and you're ready to shop! FYI: If you hit the mall on the 26th, the planets will seriously tempt you to spend them all in one shot. If you wait until the next day (or better yet, leave one at home for later), you'll end up with stuff you really want!
